Ohio County Republican Ticket.

The work of Saturday's convention completes the Republican ticket in Ohio county. A remarkable feature of the day was that the convention did not nominate a man whom it intended to nominate.

Mr. H. F. Behrens having reluctantly consented to accept a nomination if tendered to him, his nomination was assured. On the first announcement of the vote he was nominated, but in the confusion of changes the convention failed to do what it intended to do, and Mr. Behrens was left off to the surprise of the delegates and everybody else.

He was so strong with the convention that some of his friends thought they could safely indulge in the luxury of a few complimentary votes. The complimentary votes were too many by a fraction of one vote, and the convention discovered when it was too late that it had failed to accomplish its desire.

The ticket is composed of reputable men who will make an active campaign. Mr. S. G. Smith was on the legislative ticket two years ago, and ran so well that he was the only man on the ticket who was elected, but his margin was small and tempting, and the Democratic house wiped it out in favor of Mr. O'Kane. This time it is hoped that the house will have four Republicans to deal with and that it will be a Republican house.

Mr. A. R. Campbell has had experience in the state senate, and will be a very useful man in the house. Mr. Abraham Stamm is an old Central glass house man, intelligent, popular and will do his share of the campaign work. Mr. J. C. Brady is well known as a capable business man and active Republican, a happy combination of country and town, conversant with all the interests of the county.

Every man on the ticket is of good standing in the community, every one of them is a hustler and every one of them should be elected. If every Republican in the county will do all he can for the ticket, as he should, Ohio county will be represented in the next legislature by a Republican delegation.

Mr. T. J. Huges, nominee for judge of the criminal court, is well known as a lawyer and good citizen. He is honest and capable and would discharge the duties of the position without fear or favor.

Republicans whose favorites were not chosen by the convention must bear in mind that it is the duty of the minority to yield gracefully to the will of the majority honestly ascertained. The work of the convention was done fairly and every Republican should ratify it with his best efforts for its election.

Democratic politicians profess to be pleased with the Ohio county Republican ticket. They won't after election day.

An Instructive Threat.

The threat is made that if the Pullman strike be not settled quickly the men on the elevated roads of Chicago will strike. There is more of the same sort, but this is enough to illustrate the preposterous character of the movement which is obstructing the immense traffic which centers in Chicago.

What have the employees of the elevated roads of Chicago to do with the strike against the Pullman company? There are no sleepers or parlor cars on the elevated roads. There is and can be no possible connection between the Pullman strike and a strike on the elevated roads. It would be as reasonable as business-like to shut up all the meat shops and bake shops in Chicago as a means of bringing the Pullman company to terms.

To suppose that something so radical and so far-fetched as this may be attempted is not a wild speculation. The stockyards and the great collateral interest of meat packing are paralyzed. It has been threatened that if the Pullman strike be not settled within a week all the trades of Chicago will be called out on strike.

These trades have nothing to do with the Pullman controversy, but in order to embarrass business further and increase the general pressure the wage-earners of Chicago are to be asked to boycott their own livelihood and see how that will work. There are thousands of idle men in Chicago who would be glad to jump into the vacant places, but intimidation accompanied with violence will support the boycott.

This kind of thing cannot go much further without drawing together in solid phalanx all the business men and all the wage-earners of the country who are opposed to such a relapse into barbarism.

The Ohio county ticket stands for what the people want this year. It is a ticket for protection.

France For Order.

The great popular demonstration attending the funeral of Carnot means more than the expression of a nation's grief. It is the expression of the common sense and patriotism of the people against anarchy and all its works.

That particularism has been thought to have a strong hold in France. It has shown itself in frothy mouthings and threatening publications, in the dynamite bomb and in the gleaming knife; but if the questions were submitted to a popular vote the heart and the intelligence of that great country would show amighty majority against government by assassination.

The masses of the people are on the side of law and order. The enemies of government are a small, noisy, reckless faction. This is what the people have tried to show by the Carnot demonstration. It is for country and against anarchy.

There is, as usual, some disappointment over the county ticket, but it will get a loyal support just the same. Not everybody can have these things exactly his way. The majority must rule.

Tariff Prospects.

There is a pretty good prospect of trouble ahead for the tariff bill in the house. The combine between the administration, the sugar senators and the trust may bring the house to terms, but it is evident that this result remains to be accomplished and may be counted in with the doubtful districts.

The house has some idea of its own importance as the originator of revenue measures. Moreover it has not yet found sugar agreeable to its taste. Unless Mr. Wilson is misunderstood he will use his efforts as chairman of the ways and means committee and as leader of the house to give the senate sugar schedule some revising that will pain the sugar combine. Altogether the situation is engaging.

HAWAII will have a big Fourth of July this year. Mr. Grover Cleveland will not be eulogized on this occasion.

What Will Follow.

A very significant statement in the INTELLIGENCER's New York financial review emphasizes the mistake the striking railroad men are making. Having gone into a strike to show their sympathy with the Pullman strikers, they have given the railroad companies the opportunity they have been awaiting, and that is the opportunity to cut wages.

Investors in railroad securities look on this with satisfaction. The men who earn their living at railroad work will look on it with anything but satisfaction when the truth dawns on them. They will see the point later, but they will feel the situation more keenly.

The wool grower who finds his product a slow sale at a losing price does not rise up to call the Democratic party blessed. He knows when he is stepped on hard.

They are fanning away vigorously at the tariff bill to keep life in it. Its chances at this writing are not more than even.

A PICTURE.

Chicago Record.
 The camera's lens was open;
 A vision quickly passed
 In through the tilted shutter,
 Which closed and held tight.
 Although 'twas but an instant,
 By some mysterious art
 The camera drank its beauty
 And treasured it as hoards
 And wrote the vision down
 With all its charming grace,
 And gave to me a copy.
 It was my sweetest face.

So here it is before me,
 Permeating all my room,
 Among sweet appliances
 Which never come to bloom.
 A picture and a fragrance!
 Which suggest, who can tell!
 The frame of dainty blossoms
 Which from the magic spell
 Of her deft touch drew life,
 And scene her loveliest pink,
 Of her own sweet likeness
 Of whom I love to think?

Just so one day I saw her,
 And by Sir Capt's art,
 I too, drank in her beauty,
 And wrote it in my heart.
 And she she bore me home,
 With flowers for a frame
 So sweet that nature's flowers
 Must wonder whence they came.
 So in my heart she dwells,
 And evermore shall reign,
 While round her thoughts, the sweetest
 Are woven for a frame.

TREASURY SITUATION.

Secretary Carlisle's Estimates Proven Wrong by the Figures.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 1.—The fiscal year of 1894 closed yesterday. The treasury department is preparing the annual statement showing the receipts and disbursements during the past twelve months, and the total amount of available assets on hand, but until the detailed reports from the sub-treasury and depositories are received the exact figures cannot be given.

The total revenues of the government for the fiscal year, exclusive of the postal service, have amounted to $275,000,000, a decrease of $50,000,000 from the estimates made by Secretary Carlisle. On July 1, 1893, he calculated that the receipts from customs would approximate $175,000,000; from internal revenue, $90,000,000, and from miscellaneous, $50,000,000. There was a falling off of $43,000,000 in customs.

Although it was expected that a tariff bill would be framed during the coming year, the treasury officials have no means of knowing to what extent the importations would be diminished by the agitation of tariff changes, and it is not surprising that the expectations of the treasury department have fallen far short of realization.

The internal revenue items shows a falling off of $5,000,000. The agitation of a change in the internal revenue taxes doubtless had something to do with the diminution of revenue from this source, but the treasury officials are confident that the next two months will show an increase in the sale of revenue stamps which will more than offset the falling off in these receipts since January 1. The receipts from miscellaneous sources fell off $2,000,000. This is attributed to the hard times, which have reduced land sales, immigration, etc.

The expenditures during the year exclusive of postal service have amounted to $260,500,000, $5,500,000 less than the estimates and the entire savings have been in the item of pensions.

For the civil establishment the expenditures have been $101,000,000. The expenditures for the military establishment have been $54,500,000, an excess of $2,500,000 over the department's estimate, which is accounted for in the general deficiency bill covering disbursements.

The naval establishment has cost $32,000,000, or $500,000 less than was estimated. The Indian service has cost $10,000,000, against $9,000,000, but this item includes certain claims which have been adjusted within the past year and concerning which the department could make no prediction.

Under the policy of Commissioner Lochren the pensions expenditures have been only $141,000,000, a saving of $11,000,000 from the secretary's estimate of $152,000,000 and $26,500,000 on Commissioner Raum's estimate of $167,500,000. The interest on the public debt, which was calculated by the department at $26,500,000, has amounted to $27,000,000, an increase of $1,000,000, some of which is chargeable to the recently floated bond issue.
